Four Paterson Strikers Sent to Union Men Object to Paying a $3 Assessment.

Reinstated.

There is much discord in the Musical Mutual Protective Union because of the suspension of about 200 members. It vill cost each $13 to be reinstated.

A committee of the suspended members is now investigating the action of the Union in ordering an extra assessment of $3 last year for the purpose of at Ninety-first street and Third avenue, on the matter. It is alleged that on-March 1 the suspended members were fined $10 apiece because they did not pay the $3 assessment.

Secretary John Hunt, of the Union, in explanation said to-day that in March, 1893, at the regular quarterly meeting of the Union, the members indorsed the extra $3 assessment for the purpose of fixing up the new headquarters, which cost $17,500. To make the payment of the assessment as easy as possible for one of the members, it was made payable in two instalments of $1.50 each, one falling due July 1, 1893, and the other Sept.

ing due July 1, 1893, and the other Sept.
15, 1833. Times in musical circles were very dull in 1893, and a further extension of time was made.
"Our laws provide," said Mr. Hunt, "that non-payment of assessments is punishable by suspension from the Union. To be reinstated under the rules costs each member $10. That is the reason it will cost each suspended member $13 to be in good standing again. The leaders of Union orchestras are not, of course, alowed to employ suspended members or non-union men."

The Musical Mutual Protective Union came prominently before the public in January last because of its fight with Conductor Walter Damrosch.
